National Security Council

SUBJECT: National Security Emergency Preparedness Telecommunications Service Priority
System Implementation

REFERENCE: A. Memorandum for DCI from Special Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, dtd 1 Dec 88, Same Subject

B. OC-0117-89, dtd 8 Mar 89, Same Subject

1. The Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) continues to move toward an orderly transition to the National Security Emergency Preparedness (NSEP) Telecommunications Service Priority (TSP) system. Through the National Communications System (NCS) CIA voted to forward NCS Manual 3-1-1, TSP for NSEP Service User Manual, to the Federal Communications Commission for review and public comment. At the August Council of Representatives meeting, CIA voted to approve NCS Manual 3-1-1 as an official issuance of the NCS. CIA will also vote for approval at the September 28 Committee of Principals meeting.

2. CIA will continue to implement the NSEP TSP program under the guidance provided in NCS Manual 3-1-1.
